

THE INSTITUTE OF BANKERS PAKISTAN

ENGLISH

Read the following passage and answer questions given below.

Interestingly, while gender diversity and ethnicity programs are common around the globe, there are significant regional differences. For instance, Asia-Pacific companies are much more likely to have diversity programs related to age or nationality. European companies are more likely to look at disability or sexual orientation. According to the executives from large, multinational corporations that were interviewed, companies that want to be successful need to have a workforce that reflects the demographics of the region they are doing business in. For one, it is important for foreign investors and clients to see themselves reflected in the company's junior and senior teams. Secondly, local hires can help overcome language barriers and navigate cultural nuances. And thirdly, it helps firms attract new talent.
